

GIRL SCOUT MYTHBUSTERS

Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts are, and always have been, two very different organizations. Since Boy Scouts of America started recruiting girls to their program, there has been confusion and misinformation. Here are common myths and the facts.

MYTHS	FACTS ABOUT GIRL SCOUTS
✗ All “scouting” programs are basically the same	   ✓ Not even close. At Girl Scouts, everything we do is designed with and for girls. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The all-girl, girl-led space is where girls safely thrive. Our programs are tailored to maximize impact by teaching girls in ways they learn best. • The environment offered by Girl Scouts creates an inclusive, safe space in which girls are free to explore their potential and take the lead without the distractions or pressures that can be found in a co-ed environment. • In spaces, girls are more apt to take healthy risks, try new things, and take on leadership roles.
✗ Girl Scouts isn't about getting outdoors	   ✓ Girl Scouts build outdoor skills, go camping, and appreciate nature. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Girl Scouts earn badges in outdoor adventure and high adventure. • Girl Scout troop camping starts in kindergarten. • For many girls, Girl Scouts is their introduction to the outdoors. 80% of girls said camping was their most memorable experience*. • Girl Scouts of Northeast Texas owns and operates five camp properties — including a brand new STEM Center of Excellence which opened May 2018.
✗ Girl Scouts doesn't have programs for adventure	   ✓ No way! Girl Scouts have all kinds of opportunities for adventure! <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Girls choose from age-appropriate activities including: archery, paddle-boarding, backpacking, rock climbing, kayaking, zip lining, horse-back riding, and so much more. • Girl Scouts of Northeast Texas offers two, outdoor focused, special interest groups - Outdoor Adventure Interest Group (OAIG) and Travel Club where girls can experience the best of outdoor adventures and destination travel. • Not only do girls go on adventures, they raise the money and plan the trip, leading the experience and ensuring they are girl-centered.
✗ Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts offer the same science program	   ✓ Have you seen our science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) programs and heard about our STEM Center of Excellence? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The STEM interest—and confidence—gaps between girls and boys starts at age 6 and can be closed with programs that are designed for girls. Girls can earn badges in engineering, robotics, environmental science, cyber security, and space science. • Our STEM content is timeless, helping girls develop a lifelong interest in how things work and teaching girls how to think like scientists, programmers, and engineers. Even as those fields develop, Girl Scouts will understand the fundamentals of thinking like an innovator. • Girl Scout STEM curriculum and badge work is hands-on, problem-focused, and girl-led learning, not memorization. • Learn more about our STEM Center - a 92-acre camp, and a living laboratory just for girls at stemcenter.gsnetx.org.
✗ Girl Scouts is “harder” for volunteers	   ✓ Girl Scouts embrace challenge! (But it all depends on what you mean by harder.) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Girl Scouts is flexible, girl-led, and has a wide variety of activities—and we sure wouldn't change that! • There are many planning resources online and support available such as the Volunteer Toolkit, activity plans, and troop mentors.

✗ Troops are all the same		✓ Girls help choose and plan troop activities which makes every troop unique. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Activities vary depending on the interests of girls and troop leaders. Most troops explore STEM, outdoors, life skills, and community service, and attend staff-led programs where they can explore their interest in sports, arts, STEM, entrepreneurship, outdoor adventure, camp, and more!
✗ It's hard for families (especially dads) to get involved with Girl Scouts		✓ Family participation is encouraged. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • We encourage the entire family to get involved, and lots of dads volunteer in different ways, supporting as co-leaders of troops, cookie sale coordinators, and camp volunteers. • Parents and other adults play a critical role to delivering the Girl Scout Leadership Experience both as volunteers and as supporters. Parents who are also troop leaders get the opportunity to bond with their daughters as they move through the Girl Scout program.
✗ The rest of the world embraces "co-ed scouting"		✓ Girl-only scouting organizations are going strong. The World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts (WAGGGS.org) represents 10 million girls in 150 countries. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The two largest scouting organizations are the World Organization of the Scout Movement, and the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts. It is not true that co-ed scouting has replaced Girl Guides (or Girl Scouts)—it has not. They are merely different programs. • Some co-ed scout programs are sectarian or require that members recognize an obligation to a specific faith. Girl Scouts is a non-partisan, non-sectarian group, with a strong policy of inclusion for all girls.
✗ You have to be in a troop to be a Girl Scout		✓ Girls can participate in the life changing experiences Girl Scouts offer in a variety of ways. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Girls can register as independent members participating in any of our clubs, council activities or camping. Many girls choose to progress through the program with their siblings and parents as a guide. • Troop participation amplifies a Girl Scouts experience — helping girls build friendships, work together as a team, and learn through differences.
✗ Girl Scout troops in my area are full		✓ There is always room for girls at Girl Scouts. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Girl Scout troops are forming daily. We do rely on parent volunteers for lead or co-lead troops. if you are ready to get started, let us know by contacting join@gsnetx.org • Girls may sit on the temporary waiting lists while we recruit new troop leaders and form new troops. During this phase, girls are fully registered and may participate in any of our programs.
