Virtual Field Trip - AT&T Performing Arts Center

Ideal for all ages, connects with the following Girl Scout badges: Brownie Dancer and Junior Musician

Play along with AT&T Performing Art Center as they explore Disney’s The Lion King! You will learn about what goes in to making a Broadway production with video lessons and activities exploring acting, plot, and character development. Then, try some of the unplugged activities included on the guide.

Go through the 4 lessons and activities found here. Try the suggested discussion questions below to reflect on what you learned.

Discussion Questions:

What was your favorite subject to learn more about?

What kind of training do you need to be part of a Broadway show?

What do you think is the hardest part about acting on stage?

Unplugged Activities:

1) Make up your own dance! Choose a song you like and create a dance to go with it. Perform the dance for your family and see if you can teach them your moves! Make it even more fun by dressing up in a costume of your choice! (Connects with step 4 of Brownie Dancer)

2) Make your own instrument! Use materials from around your house to create a working musical instrument. Musical glasses, drums, maracas, and guitars are some examples that can be easily made. When you are finished, try to keep the beat with a song or create your own song. (Connects with step 4 of Junior Musician)

3) Dress up as a character from your favorite show, movie, or book. Costumes are important because they help tell a story. Choose a character and create a wardrobe for them. What would they wear for different parts of the story?

4) Write and perform a skit for your family. Create a brand new story or base your skit off of a book or movie you like. Make sure to create some scenery and costumes to really bring your skit to life.
